 Banquet Speaker - Frank Korvemaker

"A Blast from the Past: A Look Back at Frank Korvemaker's Archaeology Career from 1967 to 1972"

Frank Korvemaker is a construction historian who was born in the Netherlands and was educated in Eastern and Western Canada. He has worked in the field of heritage resource conservation, documentation and development for almost half a century. His career officially started in May 1967, when he was employed by the National Historic Sites Service (now Parks Canada) as an historical archaeologist in Eastern Canada. In 1972 he returned to the West to become Curator of Artifacts for the Fort Edmonton Project. From 1979 to 2004 Frank worked in various capacities for the Heritage Branch of the Saskatchewan Government.

For 12 years he also coordinated the development of the Claybank Brick Plant National Historic Site for the Foundation. (<http://www.claybank.sasktelwebsite.net/>). During the 1990s, he was one of the initiators of the "Encyclopedia of Saskatchewan" project, and subsequently contributed several articles. From 2004 to 2013 Frank worked with the Saskatchewan Archives Board, where he transferred his focus from appraising and preserving heritage buildings to appraising and preserving historic documents. Between 2006 and 2010, he initiated and subsequently coordinated reconstruction of the Bell Farm round stone barn, located north of Indian Head. Frank has been photographing historic buildings since he was 15. He was responsible for taking the majority of the Heritage Branch's collection of over 40,000 pre-digital photographs of historic buildings and structures throughout Saskatchewan. He has assisted with the publications of several books regarding architecture in Saskatchewan.
